Did You Know?

...the most common mistake made in preventing SchoolSuccess?

Research ranks classroom management as the most important variable to building and sustaining school success. Our staff development training offers the most powerful classroom management strategies available anywhere.

...every school day 7,000 teenagers become high school dropouts?

Following our training, an at-risk alternative high school in northern California reports a significant decrease in suspension rates and a significant increase in the number of students passing the California High School Exit Exam for graduation (published in Leadership magazine).

...elementary, middle, and high schools that have had our training report significant improvement in student scores across curriculum and significant decreases in discipline challenges buildingwide?

We'll teach you all of the effective Time To Teach strategies so that you, too, can achieve SchoolSuccess!

5

Components to Promote School Success

1. Maintain self-control and composure in all situations!

- Predict and avert problem situations before they surface
- Take the right course of action when challenged
- Set effective limits

2. Arrange the classroom for maximum achievement!

- Keep students visually focused on top priorities
- Teach from the "Teaching Power Position," knowing where you should and should not be
- Incorporate music, lighting, color, and scents to improve learning

3. Teach to and enforce rules and procedures

- Teach students to behave appropriately in class and school social settings
- Teach students how to use their time effectively and listen attentively
- Teach to rules and routines to zoom through the curriculum as never before

4. Firmly, but fairly, carry out disciplinary actions

- Learn to stop letting minor and major challenges interrupt important teaching time
- Stop avoiding difficult students or situations
- Handle negative classroom situations effectively
- Detect and correct problems before they surface

5. Build and maintain strong student-teacher relationships

- Learn to build and maintain trust with challenging students
- Energize apathetic students and have them working as never before
- Support unmotivated students and rekindle their passion to succeed

"Time To Teach provides a powerful and caring discipline system that sets predetermined boundaries with a positive approach. Students are accountable for their actions. The strategies establish mutual respect between the teacher and student. Teachers can teach and students can learn! It creates a positive classroom and schoolwide environment."

Dr. Brodie Bricker,
Principal, Greenville, SC

"I have seen some of my students move up from special education in Title programs to achieve at grade-level performance. My referrals have been eliminated. Students never able to do so before are now meeting benchmark standards and making dramatic gains in reading and writing."

Libba Sager, Associate
Principal, Sam Case
Primary, OR

"Lawton Public Schools is a lower socioeconomic school district in Oklahoma that services 17,000 students, over half of which are minority. Our schools were trained to use Time To Teach strategies. Following training, we experienced a 16% decrease in suspensions and office referrals, and a dramatic decrease in pupil enrollment for behavior intervention classes. We have also seen a 9% increase in test scores, and none of our schools is on the school improvement list!"

Billy Davis, Assistant
Superintendent, Educational
Services, Lawton, OK

"The number of student referrals in our middle school has dropped 30% on average every year over the past three years. It is because of Time To Teach that I can say with pride, "Every day I teach!"

Keith Johnson, Teacher/
Technology Director,
Reading, MI

"Teach with passion.
Manage with compassion."

Bring our training to your school to empower teachers, inspire students, and raise scores. We help you establish a disciplinary system that equips teachers to positively manage behaviors of students in their classroom rather than sending them to the office.
